Mokena Sets May 6 As Cleanup Day

At a special meeting of the Mokena village board, Wednesday night of this week, May 6th was officially designated as cleanup day.

Three bids for hauling and disposing of the village rubbish were opened and the job was awarded to Martin Muehler for $35. The other bidders were Joe Sandrock and Peter Homering.

The board requests that all rubbish be placed in boxes, barrels or sacks and placed in places accessible for truck drivers to pick them up.

Tinley Ball Team to Hold Practice Session

The Tinley Park baseball team will hold a practice session and general meeting Easter Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock on the ball field weather permitting.

Anyone interested in playing ball this season should attend this meeting as more than one team will be organized.

Tinley To Observe Poppy Day May 27

Monday, May 27th, will be Poppy Day in Tinley Park. On that day the women of Tinley Park Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will distribute little red poppies on the streets to be worn in honor of the World War dead. The observance here will be part of the annual nation wide observance of Poppy Day, during which millions of Americans will pay tribute to the memory of the war dead by wearing memorial poppies.

Poppy Day activities here will be directed by a committee from the Auxiliary headed by Mrs. E. Wanne-macher, chairman. A large corps of volunteer workers will be organized to carry out the distribution of the flowers.

The poppies which will be worn here have been ordered from the various Veteran hospitals where they have been made by disabled World War veterans. The poppy making has provided employment for needy veterans through the winter and spring months, enabling them to help support themselves and families. Public response on Poppy Day will determine how soon and how extensively this work can be repeated.

In exchange for the poppies, the Auxiliary women will ask each person to make a contribution for the welfare of the war's living victims, the disabled veterans, the widows and the fatherless children of veterans. This money will be used entirely in the welfare work of the Legion and Auxiliary, the bulk of it in the work of the local Post and Unit.

August Habenicht Elected Mayor of Tinley Park

August Habenicht was elected mayor of Tinley Park at Tuesday's election, defeating his opponent, Frank Hoar by 32 votes.

Arthur Schoeneck, candidate for re-election to the office of village trustee, lost by 1 vote.

The result of the election is as follows:

For mayor, August Habenicht, 217; Frank Hoar, 185.

For village trustees, Elmer V. Chapman, 292; Ernest E. Rice, 306; Clarence J. Fulton, 323; Christ Mager, 284; William F. Mancke, 264; Henry Haase, 259; and Arthur Schoeneck, 258.

Orland PTA Rehearsing For Play

Rehearsals are going on apace for the three act comedy "Wanted—A Man" that will be staged by the Orland Park PTA on May 2nd and 3rd. Tickets are now on sale and it is hoped a ready response will be given to the efforts of the members to dispose of them. Every penny realized from the production of this play will eventually be used to benefit the school and the children of the community so every ticket sold will go to help provide some of the necessities and other features that will make the school days of your child more pleasant and profitable.

In addition an evening of genuine enjoyment is promised everyone who attends. The play itself is exceedingly funny; the actors will all be from among the people of the community and have been especially selected for their respective parts. They will be rehearsed conscientiously and assiduously and will give the very best that is in them to provide an evening of genuine entertainment for those attending. So make your plans to attend one of the nights of the play. You will enjoy yourself and help along the work of a great civic organization, the PTA.

Albert Braun who was defeated in his race for re-election as village trustee, has served in this office for over 20 years. The new board will be installed into office May 7th.

Highway Comm. Hold Dinner

The highway commissioners and members of the Relief Commission of Will County held a get-together meeting and dinner in the Frankfort Tavern, Thursday noon. Following the dinner, talks were given on various matters of particular interest to these groups.

Elect 2 Directors In Cleveland District

The school election held in the Cleveland school district last Saturday night was a very hot one. The school directors elected were as follows: Jacob DePorto, 16 votes and Emil Lauffer, 16 votes.

Mr. Reimers and Kingsley Owen were defeated in their race for these offices.

Frankfort Band Holds Concert at Mokena

The concert given by the Frankfort band and orchestra in the Mokena school auditorium last Friday night, showed that the Frankfort musical ensemble is making great strides ahead and their concert was excellent. It was very masterfully rendered and much credit is due the able director, Mr. R. B. Wight for the excellent performance of the ensemble.

The Frankfort band is to take part in the state contest of bands, to be held in Chicago Heights, April 26th. Miss Marjorie Knight played a selection which she will render at the state contest.

Tho the attendance at the concert was rather small, the excellent quality of the musical numbers was greatly enjoyed and those who did not attend certainly missed a big musical treat.

King of Kings Will Show at Frankfort

All arrangements have been completed to present the sound movie "The King of Kings" in St. Peter's Evangelical church on Saturday and Sunday evening April 20th and 21st.

Since a number, who had ordered their tickets for Sunday evening have taken tickets for Saturday evening instead there will be some seats available for Sunday evening. Those who come on Saturday will find good seats available.

Tickets for both presentations can be purchased before the performance in the vestibule of the church.

Wolf Road Case Up Next Tuesday

The hearing on the injunction suit restraining the building of Wolf Road thru the edge of the school yard in the Cleveland school district is set to come up in the Will County Circuit Court next Tuesday morning, April 23 at 9:30 a. m.

Famous Movie Coming to Tinley

Cecil De Mille's masterpiece "King of Kings" with sound in 12 reels depicting the last week of the life of Christ will be shown under the auspices of the Tinley Park German and English M. E. Sunday schools in the Tinley Park school auditorium, Wednesday night, April 24th at 8 o'clock.

This is a wonderful picture and ran for many weeks in the best theatres in the big cities. Be sure to see and hear it.

In addition to this picture there will be a home news reel in which you may see yourself, also other special numbers. A good evening of entertainment is being planned, something to be remembered for a long time.

The net proceeds will go to the two Sunday schools and public school committee.

Orland Parish Social To Hold Dance

The Parish social club of Orland Park will hold an Old Time dance at the Bachelor Grove ballroom, Tuesday night, April 23rd. Everyone is cordially invited to attend. Music by Lea's Melody Boys.

To Frankfort Citizens:

To the citizens and voters of Frankfort, I wish to state the article that was published in the last week's Bulletin is a correct statement and I want to thank the person that had it published in the paper. I also want to thank those that supported me in the last election.

To my successor George Sangmeister we have left a nice large amount in the village treasury, for a good start, and I hope you will make as good a showing as I did or better so when your time expires that the voters will and should appreciate it and re-elect as often as you choose to run.

Sincerely, George F. Haass

Tinley Woman's Club To Hold Meeting

The Tinley Park Woman's club will hold their annual meeting Wednesday, April 24, at the M. E. church.

The business meeting will be at 10:30 a. m. All chairman are requested to have a written report of their work for the past year.

Luncheon will be at 12:30 o'clock. The Indian Welfare program with Mrs. John Swisher will start at 1:30 p. m. The speakers will be Mrs. Fred W. Waterman and Mrs. William J. Rogers.

Music by Mrs. Leah Winsor; Group of Indian songs, Lucille Noehring; Indian Legend of the Arbutus, Mrs. Swisher; Hiawatha's Wooing, Milton Lucas.

To Hold Bake At Orland Park

The Ladies Aid society of the Christ Lutheran church of Orland Park will hold an Easter bake sale at the Loebe store in Orland Park, Saturday afternoon, April 20th. Everyone is invited to buy your Easter supply of bakery goods.

Card of Thanks

I take this means thru the columns of the News-Bulletin to thank the voters of the village of Frankfort who so ably supported me with their votes at the village election, Tuesday, April 16th, 1935.

GEORGE C. SANGMEISTER
President Elect, Village of Frankfort.

Carl Schneider Back at Old Stand

Carl Schneider, a former Mokena resident who is well known in Frankfort township, has re-opened a tavern and restaurant in the Court building across from the court house in Joliet. Mr. Schneider first started in the same place 25 years ago. He will appreciate to have his old friends call on him at his old stand.

Demented Man on Lincoln Highway

A stranger, about 45 years old, quite well dressed, created much attention on the Lincoln highway near the Reab filling station east of New Lenox Thursday afternoon when he took his shoes off and tried to flag down passing cars. He finally put the shoes on his hands and started to crawl on all fours along the highway. The highway police were called and turned the stranger over to the sheriff's office.

No Opposition at Orland Election

The village election at Orland Park was a very tame affair. There was only one ticket in the field. Mayor Wm. Kollman and the six trustees of the old board were all re-elected.

Card of Thanks

I wish to sincerely thank the voters of Mokena for the fine support they gave me at the village election last Tuesday.

EDWARD MARTIE,
President of Mokena Village Board

Homer Children Hurt In Bus Crash

Three children from the northern part of Homer who are attending school in Lemont and are taken by bus there each day had the misfortune to be in an accident Monday, when the bus in which they were riding was struck by a large truck.

The children injured are: Marilyn Voltarel, who had to have 5 stitches taken on the back of her head; Wayne Meier, who had to have two stitches taken above the temple and three in the cheek due to deep lacerations. He was cut quite badly on the hands. John Meier, Jr., suffered bruises on the back of his head and the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Mat Seiler was also injured.

Mrs. Anna Johnson Taken By Death

Mrs. Anna Johnson, died April 2nd at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ida Modeen in the Lincoln Estates.

Funeral services were held April 5th with burial in Mt. Greenwood cemetery near Chicago.

Mrs. Johnson was born May 10, 1862 in Sweden. Surviving are five daughters, Miss E. Johnson, Mrs. Ida Modeen, Mrs. Virginia Jenkinson, Mrs. Agnes Jurn, Miss Thresa Johnson and one son George Johnson.

PROPERTY ORDER BY COURT SAVES COUNTY $20,900

As the direct outcome of a violent protest three years ago by County Commissioners Sears, Fleming, Busse and Miller, which led to complete reversal in procedure, Cook county has been ordered by Judge Roman E. Posanski to pay only $700 instead of $21,600 to a Bellwood property owner for damages to his property growing out of the improvement of Harrison street by changing the grades under the tracks of the Indiana Harbor Belt Line railroad.

These board members found that a special stipulation had been entered into by Attorneys John Bolton and Edward Mulcahy, on behalf of the highway department, by which a jury trial was waived, no appeal was to be taken and $175 a front foot was to be allowed for property worth only $65 and assessed for $20 without any authority from the commissioners.

The total amount involved was $150,266, of which the parcel involved in the decision yesterday was a typical part. It was further discovered that of the seven parcels included in the stipulation two cases were filed only two days before the stipulation and no legal papers had been served.

When discovered, the resolution offered before the board of commissioners by Former Commissioner Amelia Sears charged fraud and collusion and asked that the matter be investigated by the Chicago Bar Association and the state's Attorney. The bar association made an investigation but never reported its findings. The state's attorney never acted. The decision yesterday made an award of approximately one-thirtieth of the amount originally agreed upon in the stipulation. At the same rate the total saving to the county on all the parcels involved will be $145,340.

Attorney Bolton explained that his only connection with the proceedings was to file the suits as one of the attorneys for the highway department. After the suits had been filed he had no further connection with the case, he said.

The bar association's report, while never made public, cleared him of any connection with the proceedings, it was said.

Favor Free School Transportation

At the school election at Mokena last Saturday night Elmer Cooper was re-elected school director without opposition. The question as to free transportation for pupils of the non-high school district received an overwhelming favorable vote.

Easter tide

WITH EASTER at hand all sorts of alluring gift suggestions burst forth in early springtime splendor. This is the season of the year for surprise presents chosen from the charming array of gift ideas the beauty field offers, says a fashion writer in the New York Herald-Tribune.

Perfume is always a delightfully appropriate present, particularly at this time of the year. Besides, the atmosphere of early spring spells enchantment—a certain new romance in living, especially identified with perfumes and spring fragrances.

Some alert perfumers, to meet the various holiday requirements, are presenting bright and decorative Easter eggs. Gayly colored papier mache "eggs" of red, green, blue, white and yellow contain one or more attractively decorated bottles.

Other firms whose perfumes suggest "Evening and Springtime in Paris" (certainly quite in keeping with this April season), also offer Easter egg packages. These French perfumes are presented in egg-shaped containers of metal with the familiar little sapphire blue and silver bottle resting snugly in one half of the "egg." Here you have a choice of blue, red, green, orchid, pink and pale blue. Certainly a variety of Easter colors!

Powder compacts make a welcome gift. One cosmetic house presents a particularly gay and springlike compact in chromium finish with a pearl gray enamel top, embellished with a basket of bright colored flowers. Just the right note for spring!

A certain New York shop offers a gala display of vanity cases, jeweled compacts and brilliantly decorative lipsticks to match new spring ensembles. The vanities come in black enamel for evening wear and silver for daytime and sport. They are filled with surprises! Powder, rouge, two lipsticks (in daytime and evening shades), a little comb. Quite a compact Easter package, to say the least.

But one novelty compact, popular in the beauty field, is one which is skillfully designed to hold a key. Here beauty combines with the practical, and eliminated are those moments of fumbling in one's pocketbook for the key. The compact will hold any cylinder key. You simply slide the little knob at the top of the case to push out the key. The compact comes in two styles, a double and single compact in assorted enameled colors. You are able to use your own favorite powder, for the cases are made for loose powder. Such a novel vanity would be a delightful gift.

Strange Easter Customs

THERE'S a lot more to Easter than displaying finery.

Take Scotland, for instance. Lads and lassies there cavort in an Easter spirit alleged to be typical of their country—at expense to none. They get hard-boiled, dyed eggs (once fresh, it is hoped) and playfully roll or throw them at each other. And when they are through with their rolling and throwing, they eat the by-that-time-battered remains.

But the old-timers in Lancashire, Cheshire, Staffordshire and Warwickshire were different. They played a lifting and heaving game. On Easter Monday the men lifted or heaved the women. How far or for what history fails to record. On Easter Tuesday the women, having the last word, lifted or heaved the men. And all this was a very serious matter.

To explain the lifting and heaving, the maneuver was performed by two lusty men or women joining their hands across each other's wrists. Then, making the person to be heaved sit down on their arms, they lifted or heaved him aloft two or three times and often carried him several yards in the street, the distance, of course, depending on the avoirdupois of the victim, London Tit-Bits records.

Even clergymen were unable to escape the heaving or lifting. It so happened a very austere minister was passing through a town in Lancashire on an Easter Tuesday. It was all he could do to uphold his professional dignity when three or four husky women ran into his room, exclaiming they had come "to lift him."

"To lift me," repeated the amazed divine. "What can you mean? Is there any such custom here?"

"To be sure," they chorused, "all us women was lifted yesterday and us lifts the men today in turn."

The reverend traveler, it is recorded, saved his position by bribing them with a half crown and scurrying off on his mission.

In Durham on Easter Monday history says the men claimed the privilege of taking off the women's shoes, and the next day the women came right back in a turn-about's-fair-play manner. History again falls us, for it does not say what "kick" they got from taking off each other's shoes.

At Hungerford in Berkshire during Easter a young man is perfectly entitled to claim a kiss from every pretty girl he meets between noon and 6:00 p. m.

One of the curious customs of the day was that which centered in the distribution of what was known as the Pax or Peace cake. Until very recent times persons who had quarreled were invited to share such a cake, say "peace and good will" and "make up."

Priests in England a few generations ago used to make small crosses of palms which they gave to their congregations. At the shrine of Our Lady, Nantwell, Cornwall, the people developed a ceremony of dropping these symbols into the holy well to test their luck—if the crosses floated, good fortune might be expected; if they sank, death and disaster would be forthcoming.

British schoolboys, it is recorded, long made it a practice to carry blossoming willow branches through towns and villages on Palm Sunday, and even since the World war it has been a custom for London residents to visit the country and bring back flowering boughs on the day of palms.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for April 21

THE FUTURE LIFE (EASTER LESSON)

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:1-12; John 14:1-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.—John 11:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Living Again.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Living Again.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Life Here and Hereafter.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Life in the Light of Eternity.

I. God, the God of the Living (Mark 12:26, 27).

"If a man die, shall he live again?" is an age-long question. It is affirmatively answered by both the universal human conviction and the holy Scriptures. Death does not end all. It is not a leap into the dark. It is rather the open door through which human personality enters into the light of glorious freedom. Life itself is but a training school, a preparation for the larger and higher life after death. Those who in their lifetime are in vital relation to Jesus Christ, the eternal Life, shall never die.

II. The Resurrection of Jesus Christ (Luke 24:1-12).

The supreme test of Christianity is the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. It matters little what Jesus said and did while alive, if his body remained in the grave. If he did not come forth in triumph from the tomb, then all his claims are false. On the other hand, if he did arise, all his claims are true.

1. The empty sepulchre (vv. 1-3).

a. The coming of the women (v. 1). As an expression of affectionate regard for the Master, they came with spices for his body.

b. What they found (vv. 2, 3). When they came to the sepulchre they found the stone had been removed, but they found not the body of Jesus. For them to have found his body in the sepulchre would have been the world's greatest tragedy. The empty tomb spoke eloquently of the deity and power of the Son of God (Rom. 1:4).

2. The message of the men in shining garments (vv. 4-8).

a. "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" (v. 5). The angels' question has continued to reverberate through the centuries.

b. "He is not here, but is risen" (v. 6). Jesus, before he was crucified, had told them that the Lord must be betrayed and crucified and that on the third day he would rise.

3. The women witnessing to the eleven (vv. 9-11). Their thrilling testimony concerning the empty tomb and the words of the angels appeared to the apostles as idle tales.

4. Peter investigating (v. 12). While the testimony of the women seemed as idle tales, Peter was not of the temperament to lightly dismiss the matter. Therefore, he ran to the sepulchre. Upon close investigation he found the linen clothes lying in such a way as to prove the reality of the resurrection.

III. Jesus Preparing a Place in Heaven for His Own (John 14:1-3).

The hopes of the disciples were utterly shattered when Jesus told them about the cross. He consoled them by pointing to the reunion in the Father's house. This he did by

1. Asking them to trust in him even as God (v. 1). Faith in the God-man, Christ Jesus, will steady the heart no matter how intense the grief.

2. By informing them that he was going to the Father's house to prepare a home for them (v. 2). He declared that in that house there were many abiding places. Heaven is an eternal dwelling place for God's children.

3. By assuring them that he would come again and escort them to heaven (v. 3). He will come and call forth from the grave those who have died and transform living believers and take them all together to be with him forever in the heavenly home (1 Thess. 4:16, 17).

IV. Jesus Christ is the Way to the Heavenly Father (John 14:4-6).

In answer to Thomas' interposed doubt Jesus asserted:

1. That he is the way (v. 6). Jesus Christ is more than a mere guide to God or a teacher. He is the way itself, the very door of the sheepfold, the gateway to the tree of life.

2. The truth (v. 6). He is not merely the teacher, but the truth incarnate. In his incarnation the spiritual and material worlds were united. Therefore, every line of truth, whether spiritual or material, converges in him.

3. The life (v. 6). Christ is not merely the giver of life, but the very essence of life. Only those who receive Christ have life in the true sense.

You May Be Wrong

"My brethren," said Oliver Cromwell to some of his fanatical, positive followers, "in the name of Christ I beseech you to think it possible you may be mistaken." That is a good word to carry in our minds.

Hampering God

Not man's manifold labors but his manifold cares, hinder the presence of God. Whatsoever thou doest, hush thyself to thine own feverish vanities, and busy thoughts, and cares; in silence seek thy Father's face.

Indian Village De Soto Visited Believed Found

Almost 400 years ago Hernando de Soto visited the "town of Guasili" in the North Carolina mountains.

Dr. John R. Swanton, of the Bureau of American Ethnology and the Smithsonian Institution's leading authority on Indians of the Southwest, declared the site of the long-lost village has been "rather definitely" located at the site of the old Indian mound near Murphy, N. C.

Smithsonian Institution scientists have been excavating the mound, almost certain for weeks it was the lost village. According to the institution, De Soto's visit was in 1540.

It was described at that time as a town of 300 wooden houses—probably an exaggeration—capital of a province of the same name, where the hungry Spaniards were given a hearty welcome. Its occupants may have been Cherokee, since this was in territory later held by the Cherokee tribe.

The people of this town were visited in 1566 by the Spanish official, Juan Pardo, who "held conference with them in interest of his holiness and his majesty and they replied that they wished to be Christians and have his majesty for their master."

Today the place is marked by a large mound. The excavation was undertaken under the direction of J. D. Jennings, of the University of Chicago, representing the institution.

NEATLY TRAPPED

Recently a railroad, which was sued for $100,000 by a negro who falsely claimed that his legs had been paralyzed in an accident, sent two negro detectives to his town to expose him. They set up a crystal gazing parlors and, after several weeks, subtly arranged to tell the victim's fortune in his home. The crystal "forecasted" that the only way he could win his suit was to carry a log over the railroad track the next morning, hopping across on one leg and back on the other several times. So he did. And a movie cameraman, hidden in a bush, "shot" the act—and killed the action.—Collier's Weekly.

Sleep EIGHT Hours a Night

The trouble with most of us is we don't get enough exercise and we eat the wrong foods. We haven't any respect for our stomachs until they start to kick up a rumpus. We go along for years filling ourselves full of acids, the result is we can't sleep nights and always have a heavy loggy feeling. My doctor advised taking Milnesia Wafers to get rid of the acids and now I sleep soundly all night.

MILNESIA Wafers neutralize the excess acids that cause indigestion, heartburn and sick headaches. Each Wafer is a full adult dose, children—one-quarter to one-half. Pleasant to take. Recommended by thousands of physicians—At All Good Druggists.

ILLINOIS
BREVITIES

Thomas Butler, three times mayor of Alton, was defeated for re-election by Otto J. Hoffman.

The nomination of Howard L. Doyle of Decatur to be United States attorney for the southern district of Illinois was confirmed by the senate.

Emmerson Brubaker, twenty-five, died at Robinson of burns suffered when a kerosene can exploded as he was attempting to kindle a fire.

John W. Kapp, Jr., was re-elected mayor of Springfield over State Representative William J. Lawler by a majority of approximately 6,000 votes.

Russell Pearce, seventeen, employee in the Quincy city quarry, was injured when his left leg was caught in the belt of a rock crusher and amputated.

A ten-month-old girl was abandoned in Rockford at the home of C. E. Nelson, excavating contractor. His dog's barking awoke Nelson and he found the baby.

Mrs. Bessie Gudder, ninety-five, died in Pana of injuries suffered when she fell down a flight of stairs at the home of her son-in-law, Harry Tanner, owner of the Palace theater.

Geneseo went wet in a local option ballot in connection with the city election. The vote was 1,007 for the sale of liquor to 966 against it. Mayor Louis Rohweder was re-elected over John Greene.

A founder's day program, commemorating the arrival of the first settlers, was held in Memorial park in Elgin. The first settlers, James T. Gifford and his brother, Hezekiah, arrived in Elgin on April 3, 1835.

Peoria went Republican for the first time in four years when the voters elected Edward N. Woodruff to serve a tenth term as mayor. He defeated Charles L. O'Brien, Democratic incumbent.

Celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of Boone county will be held in Belvidere from June 30 through July 4. On Sunday, the opening day, there will be an outdoor religious service with massed choirs from various churches. The centennial festival will conclude with a historical pageant, etc., on the night of July 4.

March sales tax collections amounted to $3,164,041, an increase of $421,571 over the corresponding month in 1934. K. L. Ames, Jr., state director of finance, announced. Returns were made by 129,847 retailers, an increase of 15,766 over March, 1934. Delinquent taxes, penalties and interest accounted for $151,199 of the collection.

Average valuation for the 1935 quadrennial reassessment will be the same figure, $43 an acre for tillable land with untillable land scaled down accordingly, assessors decided. Corn will be assessed at 30 cents a bushel; oats, 15 cents; wheat, 40 to 50 cents; cows, $15; wheat, 40 to 50 cents; cows, $15; horses and mules, $50, and autos at the loan values.

Approval of the proposed new criminal code for Illinois, which would abolish grand juries, reclassify crimes, and give the State Supreme court power to impose uniform rules of court procedure was voted at a session of 75 attorneys and public prosecutors in Springfield. In attendance were members of the section on criminal law of the Illinois State Bar association and the Illinois State's Attorney's association.

A petition was presented in the Circuit court in Pekin asking a discharge of the $1,000 fine assessed against Jesse Hall, former state representative and former mayor of East Peoria, who is now serving a one-year sentence on the state farm for conviction of conspiracy in connection with the East Peoria sanitary district scandal. Hall's sentence expires May 17, but he is expected to receive one month off for good behavior.

Dr. W. E. Taylor, former managing officer of the East Moline Hospital for the Insane, a nationally known writer and authority on soil culture, died at his home in Moline. He would have been eighty-one years old May 24. Doctor Taylor, a native of Waukesha county, Wis., practiced medicine in Monmouth for a number of years and was mayor of Monmouth for two terms. He was head of the soil culture department of Deere & Co. from 1910 to 1933, when he resigned.

The Illinois state recovery act was held unconstitutional by Judge Homer W. Hall of the McLean County court. He also declared inoperative the national automobile code as applied to Illinois. The state industrial recovery act, the judge ruled, violates the constitution of the United States and is a surrender of the sovereign rights of the state of Illinois. The opinion was rendered in connection with the granting of a motion to quash information on which code authorities attempted to prosecute Green-Wells, Inc., local dealers in Ford automobiles, and two officers of the concern, Mrs. Grace McIntosh and March Wells.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly was elected to a full term as mayor of Chicago by an overwhelming vote that broke all local mayoral records as well as those for plurality and majority of all American cities. His total vote was nearly 800,000.

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett announced that depositors of four closed Kankakee county banks would receive dividend checks totaling $56,276.77. The banks involved are the Manteno State and Savings bank, Citizens State bank at Manteno, Farmers Bank of Buckingham and the Citizens State Bank of Herscher.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

DANNY MEADOW MOUSE
WISHES HE HAD STAYED HOME

WHEN Danny Meadow Mouse crept into the little hole in the bank of the Smiling Pool his heart was beating so fast that it hurt. Then too, he was so tired that it didn't seem to him he would be able to move again for a long time. You see, crossing the Smiling Pool was a long swim for such a little fellow as Danny Meadow Mouse. He had not been in the water for a long time before, and so of course swimming tired him much more than it would have done had he been in the habit of swimming every day. It wouldn't have been so bad if he hadn't been obliged to swim just as fast as he possibly could. As it was, the Big Pickerel who lives in the Smiling Pool had almost caught him. So between his terrible fright and his hard work Danny was quite used up.

He laid down and for a while just panted and panted, and all the time wished that he had stayed at home where he belonged on the other side of the Smiling Pool. By and by his heart stopped beating so fast, and he didn't have to pant so to get his breath. You know the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows recover very quickly from fright and weariness. This is a wise provision of Old Mother Nature. If it were not so they would not be prepared to meet unexpected new dangers.

So it wasn't a great while before Danny once more felt quite himself. He crept to the entrance of the hole in which he had found safety and peeped out. He wanted to see if Reddy Fox was still on the other bank of the Smiling Pool, and what his chances of getting back home in safety were.

The Smiling Pool was as calm and peaceful and lovely as if no such thing as danger was ever known there. Over on the other bank Danny could see Reddy Fox. It was evident that Reddy had not given up hope of getting a meal of some kind at the Smiling Pool. Danny's big cousin, Jerry Muskrat, had just climbed out on the Big Rock with a lily root. This he began to eat. Just watching him made Danny hungry. Grandfather Frog had once more climbed out on his big, green lily pad. Danny looked down into the water and his heart gave a little jump. Half hidden under some lily pads was the Big Pickerel who had so nearly caught him. Danny didn't need to be told that the Big Pickerel was lying there in the hope that Danny would once more take to the water.

Suddenly an ugly black head with wicked looking horny jaws was thrust out of the water in the middle of the Smiling Pool. It was the head of Snapper the big Snapping Turtle, and the very sight of him made Danny shiver, for he knew that nothing would suit Snapper better for a dinner than a fat meadow mouse. More than ever Danny wished he had stayed at home.

QUESTION BOX
by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I heard a woman tell another that her husband reminded her of a furnace. What do you think she meant by that?

Truly yours,
ROSE Z. PESEY.

Answer: She simply means that he smokes all day and goes out at night.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I heard two men discussing animals. One said that while in India he saw a "man eating tiger." The other said

A SYMPHONY OF SALADS

IS THERE ever any salad more appetizing and attractive than nice fresh shrimp? Take two cupfuls of cooked shrimp—fresh, if possible, canned will do—add one cupful of finely cut tender celery, one-third cupful of sliced olives (the stuffed ones), one-third of a cupful of french dressing, let stand to season, adding salt and cayenne. Then when serving add mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Another well liked salad is Waldorf Salad.

Take one cupful of diced celery, two cupfuls of finely cubed apples, one-half cupful of broken pecan meats. Cover with a tablespoonful of lemon juice and one of olive oil, adding salt and a teaspoonful of sugar. Let stand for an hour, then serve on lettuce with a mayonnaise dressing.

Who doesn't like the tender and delicious chicken salad?

Chicken Salad.

Cut the light meat of chicken into cubes. For each quart of the finely cut chicken add a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of lemon juice, a salt-spoonful of white pepper and a few dashes of cayenne. Mix and stand aside in a cool place. Add two-thirds as much tender celery cut into bits, a half cupful of shredded almonds and let stand until serving time. Cover with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce, garnished with olives, capers and hard cooked eggs.

Almonds, Pineapple and Cabbage Salad.

Shred a tender head of cabbage, add one cupful of shredded blanched almonds and a few slices of diced pineapple. Serve with salt, paprika and sour cream. Line a bowl with lettuce leaves and heap in it the salad. Serve with cheese and crackers.

Salmon Salad.

Drain the oil from a can of salmon. Remove the skin and bones and shred. Cut four boiled potatoes into cubes, add three sweet pickles finely minced and two cupfuls of finely chopped new cabbage. Season with salt, pepper and serve with a boiled dressing.

that once while in Boston he saw a "man eating rabbit." Do you believe that?

Yours truly,
IKE KANTSEET.

Answer: Well, it's possible.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I heard two actors talking the other day and one of them said he was looking for a man to take down some foot notes. I am a musician but have never heard of footnotes before. Were they kidding? If not, what instrument were they talking about?

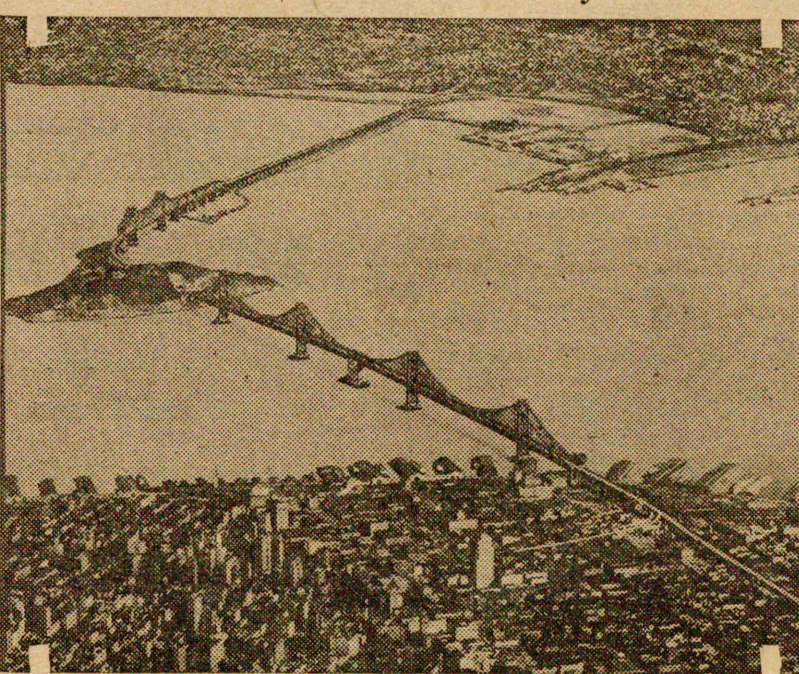

Sincerely,
SIM PHONY.

Answer: Foot notes, my dear sir, come from a shoe horn.

I am a tailor and am at a loss to know why I am having so many complaints about my clothes. The strange thing is that my customers all say the same thing. They claim that my coats wear out twice as quickly as the rest

Picture of San Francisco Bay in 1937

© Calif. Toll Bridge Authority.

UPON an aerial photograph of San Francisco bay, with Oakland in the background, architects for the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge have drawn in to scale a representation of the world's largest bridge, 8 1/4 miles long (nearly four miles over water), which will connect Alameda and San Francisco counties. The west half of the bridge is a suspension structure comprising twin suspension bridges anchored into a huge concrete monument in the center. A double-deck tunnel pierces Yerba Buena island, occupied by army, navy and lighthouse services, and the double-deck bridge continues over a 1,400-foot cantilever span, 5 through truss spans, and 14 deck truss spans before it lands on a fill extending out from the Oakland shore. At the eastern shore, hundreds carry the bridge traffic on to three branches—one for Berkeley, one for Oakland, and one for the business section of Oakland and Alameda. The piers of this bridge—51 in number—set new marks on engineering frontiers, going deeper below water than any previous substructure has heretofore been built. Some of the piers go as far as 237 feet below low tide. The two suspension bridges have 2,310-foot main spans. The lower deck carries two tracks for interurban electric cars and three lanes for heavy trucks, and the upper deck carries a 58-foot highway for six lanes of automobiles. The clearance for ships at high tide is 227 feet, 37 feet higher than the masts of any ship now afloat.

MARRIAGE

By ANNE CAMPBELL

ABOVE the din of the children,
Above the sweeping and dusting,
Above the ugly and sordid,
Like a white bird thrusting
Into the heavenly blue,
There rides the thought of you!

Above the worry and planning,
Above the ceaseless adjustment,
Like a shining saber
Cleaving the clouds that will form,
Is your love, true and warm!

Above the monotonous hours,
Above the wreck of our dreaming,
Above the illness and sorrow,
Like a bright star gleaming,
Shines ever constant and true,
Your love for me, my love for you!

of the suit. Can you possibly tell me how to make my coats last?

Yours truly,

A. STITCHENTYME.

Answer: Make your pants and vests first.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a girl eighteen years of age and for the first time in my life I went "slumming" last night. I felt hungry and went into a cheap restaurant and was surprised to see men eating with their knives. Can you tell me why people eat with their knives?

Sincerely,

I. PHEEL FINE.

Answer: Merely to sharpen their appetites.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I heard my folks say as how fish gives yuh brains. If what they say is true, what kind of them there fish shall I eat?

Yours truly,

ALF. ALFA.

Answer: Judging by your letter, I suggest a whale.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I read in this morning's paper that some aeronaut flew his airplane to an altitude of 10,500 feet. Would you like to be up that high with an airplane?

Truly yours,

Upson Downs.

Answer: I'd hate to be up that high without one.

To Assess All Intangible Property

Assessor Clark of Cook County has decided to assess all intangibles, including stocks, bonds and mortgages at 20 per cent of their actual market value. This percentage was to represent the true value of these securities for assessment purposes. In the survey made by the assessor it was on the basis of assets existing as a security for these investments.

The committee, consisting of Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman; Corporation Counsel, William H. Sexton; assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell; Mr. John E. Battle, Chief of the Personal Property Division and Mr. H. Gordon Bollman in charge of research tax work for the assessor, carried on negotiations nearly every day for the past three months.

The committee appointed by the assessor did not harmonize on the final percentage to be used for assessment purposes. Col. Sprague favored the use of 17 or 18 per cent. Mr. Battle favored a figure of 31.08 per cent. Mr. Bollman favored 18 to 20 per cent. Mr. Bell was in favor of a figure between 18 and 22 per cent. Mr. Sexton favored 20 per cent.

A final figure of 42 per cent was then considered in relation to preferred stock. The figure was presented by Mr. Battle. As a result of this last figure the assessor arrived at a figure of 30 per cent which was an average of the three scientific figures. A majority of the members of the committee objected to the inclusion of the use of the higher figure and insisted on another conference.

Cash will not be debased. When asked about the assessment of cash Assessor Clark said, "The program

Mrs. John E. Swisher accompanied by Mrs. Ernie Anderson recently drove to Ann Arbor, Michigan to bring the former's son Jack home for a few days vacation. While in Ann Arbor they visited the University which Jack is attending. They greatly enjoyed a visit thru the various University buildings and also had a taste of campus life at the college theatre. Following this they made a 150 mile trip to London, Ontario where they visited with Mrs. Swisher's sister, Mrs. A. Hyde and family. On the return trip back to the University following the vacation, Miss Helen Rice accompanied Mrs. Swisher and her son on the trip.

Mrs. James Ellis who recently underwent an operation in the Alexian Brothers hospital in Chicago, was brought to her home the past week and is recuperating nicely.

The annual election of the local board of education held Saturday night was a very quiet affair, there being no opposition. The following were re-elected: For president of the board, Bert H. Fulton 39 votes; for members of the board: J. C. Funk, 44 votes; Edward Henke, 43 votes.

Miss Ruth Lowe of Mokena spent Wednesday with Marie Bettenhausen.

In spite of the inclement weather the opening dance held at the reopening of the Sportsman's Inn Tavern Monday night was well attended. A large number of people from Blue Island and Chicago were present.

The Federal Bank Examiners made their annual examination visit to the Bremen State bank the past week end and found everything in excellent shape.

Mrs. Charles Breitbarth underwent an appendicitis operation in the Roseland hospital last Friday. She is doing nicely.

Marie Bettenhausen underwent a minor operation Wednesday.

The Ladies Aid of the German M. E. church met at the church on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Amanda Nielsen, Mrs. Rudie Swisher, Mrs. Joan Crist, Edith Baldwin and Mrs. Campbell attended the meeting of the Oak Forest Woman's Club and report a delightful meeting, Wednesday.

The village is putting on a drive to have all water bills paid up to date and is asking the co-operation of the water users so that the water department revenue will not be curtailed.

A very large congregation greeted the confirmands at the Zion Lutheran church last Sunday morning. The services were very impressive.

Requiem

I combed her golden hair around the hollow temples;
I smoothed with shaking hand pain's rugged deep-drawn ripples;
I pressed her blurred eyes in death's eternal night;
I kissed her face, white... as on earth there is no white;
I sealed her lips, that closed forever on my name;
I touched her heart, cold as a lamp without a flame.
Then in her folded hands I put the bloody Cross....

Amidst a heap of roses, under tender moss
I put her softly down between four boards to sleep....
Into the earth I let her glide for earth to keep.

And on her tomb I graved in golden script: AT REST.
Death's prey! No, no. Far better, truer: HEAVEN'S GUEST.
—N. J. Sanzanome.

U. of I. Needs Gifts; Alumni to Seek Them

Form New Foundation to Encourage Donations to the Institution.

The University of Illinois Foundation, an organization to encourage the presentation of more gifts to the University by citizens in general as well as alumni, has been approved by the Board of Trustees of the University. The foundation will seek gifts of all kinds, including perhaps the proposed new Student Union Building and other enterprises which are not provided for in state appropriations. There are more than 100,000 graduates and former students in the general alumni body.

The Foundation will have a board of twelve directors of which the President of the University, the President of the University's Board of Trustees, and the President of the Alumni Association will be ex-officio members. Three directors will be named from the University Board of Trustees and six from the general alumni body.

The new Foundation succeeds the old Alumni Fund, which raised $48,000 from alumni sources since its organization in 1921. The famous Alma Mater statue group came from this source. Although Lorado Taft donated his work as sculptor, the cost of the bronze casting was paid out of the Alumni Fund. In addition to the above amount there have been several major gifts to the University. The largest, of course, is the stadium, which came from both alumni and friends of the institution. The Smith Memorial Music Building and the McKinley Student Hospital are also gifts to the institution. Hundreds of other smaller grants have also been made.

Uni. Library Houses Big Newspaper Collection

The University of Illinois Library, largest of the state university libraries and fifth in the nation, has the largest collection of foreign language newspapers published during the last 20 years in the United States.

The collection includes 135 foreign language publications, in 30 languages, which are generally complete since 1913. There are 335 volumes in all. There is also a file of 11 newspapers published in Germany which is complete since 1914 and includes a few for earlier years. In addition to these, some 230 Illinois newspapers, generally complete since 1912, are also filed. Many of course go back many years.

regular and valuable contacts with the University through the meetings of such organizations as the Illinois Crop Improvement Association, Illinois Jersey Cattle Club, Illinois Holstein Breeders' Association, Illinois Guernsey Breeders' Association, Illinois State Horticultural Society and the Illinois Farm Managers' Association.

Many others profit from the University through special meetings for millers, swine growers, beef cattlemen, poultry producers, dairy manufacturers, land appraisers and farm real estate brokers.

During the past year or two the University has extended its services in new directions as a result of the demands for information and co-operation which have been made upon it by emergency agencies of the state and federal government. Included in this group have been the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Farm Credit Administration, Illinois Emergency Relief Commission, Federal Emergency Relief Administration, Soil Erosion Service of the U. S. Department of Interior and many others.

There probably has never been a time in the history of the University of Illinois when it was rendering as wide and as valued service as it is now. Many people are getting their first introduction to the University, but once they have that introduction, they come to a new appreciation of the institution.

Illini Law Grads Serve State, Nation

University of Illinois College of Law graduates are busy serving both the State and Nation, a recent survey of law alumni reveals.

Although the survey is not complete, it has been found that at least 104 are serving their fellow citizens in some public office and 19 are engaged in the teaching profession. Ninety per cent of the living Illini graduates are actually practicing law, 80 per cent of them in Illinois.

Of those living in Illinois one is a representative in congress, one is a state senator, three are state representatives, and one is president of the University of Illinois Board of Trustees.

Another is secretary of the Illinois Commerce Commission and one is a member of the Commission.

Two are justices of the Illinois Supreme court, three are federal judges, one an appellate judge, nine are circuit court judges, fourteen judges in county courts, and two judges in city courts.

Twenty-one graduates of the Illinois College of Law are today serving as State's Attorneys, six as assistant State's Attorneys, and three are assistant United States District Attorneys.

Thirteen Illini are serving as city attorneys and eleven as masters of chancery.

Outside the state, nine Illinois graduates are serving in public capacities and one is even serving in China as a justice in the Supreme Court of that country.

Of the 19 in the teaching profession, 13 are in the law field and 6 in related subjects in other fields.

U. OF I. LEADS WAY IN ECONOMY FOR TAX PAYERS

Left Unused $2,900,000 Appropriated to It by Legislature in 1931.

Of all our State supported divisions and departments, the University of Illinois was among the first to drastically curtail its activities when, in 1931, it became evident that the income for the State was declining so rapidly that the utmost co-operation of all State departments and divisions would be necessary.

Although the State Legislature had appropriated $1,400,000 for a unit of the Medical-Dental building in Chicago, the University's Board of Trustees, of its own accord, relinquished the use of this money. In addition, the University also left unused during that biennium another $1,500,000 that had been appropriated to it by the Legislature for operation and maintenance. This was accomplished through salary cuts, through the curtailment of many activities, canceling and drastically reducing all orders for equipment, by delaying needed repairs and replacements wherever possible, and in sundry other ways.

The net result of these economies meant that the University had reduced its own budget for the 1931-33 biennium, under what the Legislature had granted, by 28%.

Although the total State appropriations for the current biennium represented a drop of 34.2%, every item making up the University budget, other than salaries and wages was, on the average, 62% under the previous appropriation. Considering State appropriations for repairs and equipment alone, the funds available for the current biennium are 65% lower than those of the previous period. The State appropriations for the current biennium, granted by the last General Assembly, totaled $3,905,000 per year. For 1931-33, the amount appropriated was $5,040,000 per year, and for 1929-31, $5,015,000 per year.

The per capita cost to the individual citizens of the State for maintaining the University is as low as any of the great state universities performing similar functions; indeed, it is lower than many.

The University is now facing a critical financial problem because of increasing enrollments and because of the rapid rise in costs of materials. To hold the appropriations at the present level really means further substantial curtailment of its functions and activities.

Germs Meet Quick Death on Clean Skin

While the human skin is only one twenty-fifth of an inch thick, University of Illinois medical research scientists believe it to be about the most remarkable disinfecting agent there is.

Experiments showed that 98 per cent of thousands of bacteria which had been placed in contact with human skin disappeared within 10 minutes, according to Dr. Lloyd Arnold of the University College of Medicine.

Eleven various kinds of bacteria were used in the tests including those that produce wound infections, lockjaw, boils, typhoid and dysentery. The skin got rid of the dangerous germs just as quickly as it did the harmless ones.

"However, the skin has certain minute never-sterile areas where the germs do not disappear," Dr. Arnold reports.

Four such areas are: under the finger nails, the thin line that marks the junction of the lip with the membrane lining of the mouth, the line where the outside skin joins the membrane lining of the nostrils, and the rim of the eye-lid where the outside skin meets the inside lining.

The tests showed further that skin coated with fat did not rid itself of bacteria as quickly as clean skin. Plumbers and electricians were subjected to tests just as they were finishing their day's work and before they washed. Tests were applied before and after washing.

After 10 minutes the dirty hands showed no reduction of bacteria while the clean hands had lost 85 per cent. After an additional 10 minutes the clean hands were entirely free of bacteria; the dirty hands had lost only 5 per cent of them.

English Pay Uni. President High Tribute

British Copy Ventilation System
Designed by Willard for Holland Tunnel.

With the opening of the world's longest underwater tunnel in the world—the Mersey tube connecting Liverpool and Birkenhead in England—the new president of the University of Illinois, Dr. Arthur C. Willard, was paid an other great tribute.

Prof. Willard was in charge of the experimental work at the University Engineering Experiment Station which resulted in the solution of the ventilation problem at the time the Holland Tunnel, connecting New York and New Jersey, was constructed.

Engineers responsible for the $35,500,000 Mersey tube waited until the Holland tunnel, which cost $48,000,000, had been operated before completing their plans for their own project's ventilation; then Sir Basil Mott, chief of the British engineers, decided to have all the Holland tunnel ventilation machinery duplicated.

That so great a project is based upon the findings of American engineers is another great tribute to engineering in the United States and another indication of the great return made the State, Nation, and World on research at the University of Illinois.

WANTED

DEPENDABLE REPRESENTATIVES FOR ALL OR PART-TIME IN THIS COMMUNITY

I am the sales-manager of a successful business of national scope. The nature of this business is such that I can offer men and women of standing in their community a profitable and congenial way of adding to their income on a part-time basis, or to establish a lucrative business of their own in a position to devote their entire time to the work I have in mind.

These duties bring our representatives in touch with the best business and professional elements of the community. The work is dignified, and I give every field representative my personal assistance; in fact, I consider our field agents as one of the most important divisions of this large business.

Write to me briefly about yourself and your experience. Your letter will come directly to my desk and will receive my personal attention.

News From Springfield

By Bernice T. Van der Vries
Representative Seventh District

Partisan lines were not as sharply drawn as had been anticipated when the bills providing for a 1 percent increase in the Occupational Tax and for a 3 percent tax on the gross receipts of public utilities, were called up for passage last week.

The members of the minority party were more vociferous in expressing their sentiments in opposition to the bills but many members of the majority party were either silent or absent on roll call. Probably the greatest surprise was the roll call on the Occupational Tax Bill in the Senate when 10 voted in favor of the increased tax and 14 against. Consideration was postponed before the roll call was finished. In the House a similar measure received 56 ayes and 52 nays with 44 absent or not voting. The Bill to tax utilities received 63 ayes and 48 nays. Both bills needed 102 votes to pass. All the representatives from the 7th District voted against the Occupational Tax increase. On the Utility Tax, Representative Frank G. Ring voted aye.

The opposition is not on the basis of opposing the granting of funds to supply the necessities of life to those persons who through circumstances over which they had no control must rely upon public relief funds, but rather to 1st, increasing taxes, 2nd, the mounting costs of administering relief and 3rd, a system which encourages idleness and ridicule of work.

Many expressed the opinion that the state budget due by statute one month after the convening of the General Assembly should be submitted before new funds were appropriated.

Of interest to residents of the Seventh District where schools are suffering from acute financial distress should be a resolution introduced on Tuesday by Representative Van der Vries. In the resolution the Governor was requested to apply to the Federal Relief Administration for help for schools which are threatened with closing and with a possibility of not being able to open in September. Aid if received is to be administered by the Governor upon the recommendation of the School Commission. The resolution was passed by the House on Tuesday and by the Senate on Thursday. Senator Arthur J. Bidwill helped the passage of the resolution in that body.

TO TELL THE TRUTH

To tell the truth, it's difficult to tell the truth. Even George Washington must have found it a trifle difficult to tell it when his father sternly inquired who had chopped down the cherry tree. But there is something even more difficult than telling the truth. That is knowing the truth. Who, for instance, were our greatest presidents? The names of Washington and Lincoln come unhesitatingly to our lips at that question, but when we come to modern times there are divergences of opinion. Perhaps it takes sixty or seventy years to learn the truth.

A case that illustrates this was a conversation which took place shortly after the Great War between two well-meaning and enthusiastic young men. The first came to the second, his face all ablaze with a fine idea, and said:

"I don't believe what I read in the newspapers. I'll tell you what let's do. Let's start a newspaper that tells absolutely nothing but the truth."

"It's a grand idea!" asserted the second warmly. "Let's do it! In our very first editorial we'll say that Wilson was the greatest president we ever had!"

"We will not!" replied the first. "I thought you said we were going to tell nothing but the truth!"

And so the idea of a strictly truthful newspaper died aborning.

One Thing All Agree On

There are millions of citizens in the United States who agree with the first young man and millions also who agree with the second, but one thing all agree on is that it is a pleasant and patriotic thing to give a Washington's birthday dinner and keep the memory of our great first President and his sound traditions warm.

Washington was a dignified member of the community who sedulously kept up his state. He dressed well and shone in society and doubtless had good meals, too, so let's plan a bang-up Washington's birthday dinner with plenty of good things to eat. How would this do?

Iced Orange and Grapefruit Juice
French Lamb Chops
Duchesse Potatoes
Peas in Cream
Buttered Diced Beets
Hot Finger Rolls
Grapefruit, Cucumber and Pimiento Salad
Deep Dish Cherry Tarts
Coffee

Here are the Recipes
You doubtless know how to prepare most of these dishes, but here are the recipes for the salad and the dessert. The ingredients of the first are

1 No. 2 can grapefruit
1 cucumber
Drain and chill the grapefruit. Peel the cucumber, cut it in wafer thin slices, and crisp it in ice water. Drain and arrange the grapefruit and cucumber in nests of lettuce. Decorate with strips or cubes of pimiento. Pour over a very cold French dressing to which a little grapefruit syrup and a little chopped green pepper has been added. Serves eight.

The ingredients of the dessert are:

1 No. 2 can red
1/2 cup sugar
4 tbsps. flour
1 tbsps. butter
2/3 cup cherry
syrup
Drain the cherries and divide them among eight deep individual tart tins or custard cups or ramekins. Mix the sugar and flour and sprinkle them over the drained cherries. Put bits of butter on top. Pour over the two-thirds cup of cherry syrup. Cut out rounds of pie pastry, cut slits in tops and press over tops of tins or custard cups or ramekins. Bake about thirty minutes, having the oven hot—425 degrees—at first, then reducing it to 350 degrees. Serves eight.

The syrup from the grapefruit in the salad is used in the first course with the orange juice. If desired, some of the cherry syrup from the cherries may also be added to this drink.

SUPERVISOR'S REPORT

State of Illinois, County of Cook, ss. Town of Orland.

OFFICE OF TOWN SUPERVISOR

The following is a statement by Charles Doctor, Supervisor of the Town of Orland, in the County and State aforesaid, of the amount of public funds received and expended by him during the fiscal year just closed, ending on the 25th day of March, A. ARMING 100,000 WARRIORS

Addis Ababa, Abyssinia—Altho Helie Salassie, "King of Kings", declares there is no state of war between his mountain kingdom and Italy, the arrival of a heavy trainload of 400 machine guns, 20,000 rifles, 6,000,000 cartridges, largely made in Belgium and Czechoslovakia, will go far toward arming the 100,000 dusky warriors he has massed along the borders of Italian Somaliland. In the meantime, the League of Nations is pondering over his charges of Italian aggression.

CUBAN FIRING SQUAD

Havana—Convicted of placing a bomb under a custom's officials house Jaime Greinstein, Cuban born of German-Jewish parents, faced a firing squad at the Moncada Barracks, thus paying a penalty that has been rare in Cuba even under the dictatorship of Maghaddo. The resumption of Court martial proceedings against civilians is accepted by many observers as the present government's answer to the rioting of a month ago.

NO MONEY IN WAR

Washington—War will not make any more millionaires if the McSwain Bill is passed in its final form as put through the House. Excess war profits are taxed 100 percent. The President is empowered to fix prices, license manufacturers, close stock exchanges and punish violators. He can determine where profits become excessive, tax them out of existence.

THE CIRCUS ARRIVES

New York—Brand new from bass drums to elephants trappings, the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey Circus officially opened the spring and pink lemonade season here this week. This year two men are shot out of the big gun; a troupe of bears ride bicycles, which is no easy trick for a man, and an Egyptian with an asbestos tongue licks a red-hot poker like a lollipop. For three solid hours, kids and their elders are held spellbound by the never-ageing pagentry of the "Greatest Show on Earth."

Smart for School or Work in Office

PATTER 2085

When a girl leaves the house before nine every morning, whether she's off to school or to work, she needs at least one well-tailored frock in her wardrobe, one that will take her smartly through long busy hours and bring her home at night looking as freshly dressed as when she started. Designed along tailored lines, this frock adds a becoming "little boy" collar to its youthful yoke and tops its smart front bodice pleats with buttoned-down tabs that look for all the world like two perky little pockets. The skirt boasts a panel in front which ends in two inverted pleats, and there is another inverted pleat at the back. The full back gathered to the yoke is the last word in chic.

Pattern 2085 is available only in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 16 takes 2 1/2 yards 54 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Address orders to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

GOLDEN DAWN

SYNOPSIS

Theodore Gatlin adopts a baby, "Penelope," in an effort to solve his matrimonial troubles. But his wife has never wanted her, and their affairs end in the divorce court. Ten-year-old Penelope is given into the keeping of Mrs. Gatlin. At a baseball game a ball strikes Penelope on the nose. Mrs. Gatlin spirits the child to Europe. Gatlin wills Penelope all his money, and is about to begin a search for her when a motor accident ends his life. Some ten years later, in San Francisco, Stephen Burt, rising young psychiatrist, is presented by Dan McNamara, chief of police, with a new patient—Nance Belden, a girl with a dual personality, for which her "saddle nose" is in part responsible. McNamara does not think she is a criminal and obtains Burt's testimony in court. Lanny, the doctor's office nurse, is also won over. Nance's criminal record outweighs Doctor Burt's explanation of her case and she is sent to San Quentin penitentiary. Lanny visits her and Nance persuades her to smuggle out a letter which a Confederate of Nance steals. Nance escapes, although shot, and goes to Lanny's apartment. Lanny tells Chief McNamara, who orders her to bring Nance to his apartment. Details of Nance's escape are made public.

"Nance had no right to be there," the man protested to McNamara. "The poor kid's queer." He tapped his forehead. "But she framed a sweet getaway, if it would work, and we figured it might. So we thought we'd give the girl a hand. She's all right. I've got a blind brother that would have starved to death if it hadn't been for Nance Belden; as for the man the doctor's working over now, Nance took care of his wife while he was in the stir. Helped her when she had a baby. Chief, that girl's a saint. The only trouble with her is that she's a devil, too. You never know how to figure her."

"You've figured her right. She's queer. And what's your wounded friend been doing since he got out of stir? What did he get in for?"

"He got in for bootlegging and he's been bodyguard for a boss bootlegger since he got out."

"H-m-m-m! And what's your specialty?"

"I don't know what line I'll take up, Chief. I've only been out of the United States army disciplinary barracks on Alcatraz island a month. I was a soldier—and I poked an officer."

"Oh, you're the machine-gunner, eh? Learned to shoot in the army, I suppose?"

"If I hadn't, I'd have killed that guard. I could have gotten him if I cared to, but instead I scared him with ovals and shorts. Did I sweep the roof of that lookout tower?"

"You certainly did—and rattled the man at the Browning gun there. Well, you're quite a fellow! What does your friend, the chauffeur, do?"

"Delivers bootleg. He took a chance for a friend."

"You may go," said Dan McNamara to the chauffeur. "Take your car and beat it. But I'll remember you and if you pull any rough stuff in this city I'll land you out in the grass. On your way."

The man fled promptly, and Dan turned to the ex-soldier. "I've got Nance out at my house," he explained. "Doctor Burt has fixed her up and I'm not going to turn her in. Neither am I going to turn her out, because she wouldn't be out two hours before she'd be picked up. That saddle nose of hers is a dead-give-away."

The man nodded lugubriously.

"We've got to find a quiet spot for your friend, too," the chief went on meditatively. "A man with three bullet holes in him is in an embarrassing fix—when he's wanted. So we'll take him out to my house, too. That's the only safe place I can think of."

"How about me?"

"You've been a soldier, so I suppose you can carry out orders?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, your orders are to come out to my house, too, and take care of your friends. The doctor will call every day and tell you what to do. And you'll have to do the cooking."

"I can do that, too. Not fancy, but they can eat it."

"All right, you've got a job and a holding-up place as well. I'll go home now and get my car and come back for you and your friend. Meanwhile don't you get cold feet and disappear. I want to talk to you some more. I want to find out all about Nance Belden, and you and your friend might be able to give a line on her."

"I don't know anything about her, Chief, except that her real name is Penelope Gatlin."

Dan McNamara clasped his corrugated brow in both hands and pondered. "Gatlin! Gatlin! Penelope Gatlin! Now, where have I run across that name in my business? I don't usually forget names, and I seem to remember I had a call once for somebody by that name or else somebody by that name called on me. It was a long time ago. I'll have to look that up—I wonder if there's anything in the files at headquarters."

It was midnight before Nance Belden's two friends were installed with her in Dan McNamara's house. Lanny looked both men over carefully and confided to the chief that she wouldn't trust either one of them as far as she could throw a bear by its tail, to which Mr. McNamara replied that one of them couldn't raise any devilry if he wanted to, while the other dared not. Moreover, this latter was the only practical nurse he could secure. A trained nurse might talk; on the other hand, this friend of Nance's had been educated to keep his mouth shut. "And a very great virtue," McNamara added. "His freedom is in my keeping and my honor is in his, so we have to trust each other. Besides, it's high time you got home."

"How about those two cops waiting for me?"

"Greet them kindly, ask them their business and invite them to talk it over before they can tell you what it is. When they tell you permit them to search your home, and be cheerful about it."

The phone rang and Dan answered it. When he rejoined Lanny he was smiling broadly. "You're a bum mopper-up," he accused. "That was Flynn, one of the detective sergeants on watch at your house. He found two drops of blood you overlooked, so he thinks you and Nance are in the house but refuse to answer the bell, and he wants permission to break in, in the name of the law. He says he can slide the latch on your front door lock like nobody's business. I told him to wait another hour and then try it, but to be careful."

Lanny's independent and belligerent nature was instantly aroused. "If I couldn't give a snooper like that cards and spades, the four aces, big and little casino, and beat him to death on the sweeps, I'd kiss a cow," she declared. "Guess I'll go home and make those big boobs feel ashamed of themselves for disturbing a lady."

"Whatever you do, be nice to them," he warned earnestly. "If you get snooty with them, Lanny, they'll just wait you down to central station and stow you away for the night—with the excuse that the chief wants to see you. And I've decided I don't know you. If I did I'd go home with you."

He escorted Lanny out to her car enough to open your garage door, Miss Lanning, we will go out, come up your front stairs, ring the bell like gentlemen, and ask if we can't come in and have a little chat with you. Is that satisfactory?"

"Eminently so," Lanny was as polite as the speaker now. She felt for the bolt in back of her, slid it back and kicked the door open without taking her eyes or her pistol off the pair. They went out, closed both doors behind her and held them closed until she had shot the bolt home again. Then she went upstairs and let herself in just as her doorbell rang; so she switched on the lights, removed her hat and coat, went to the door and opened it. Instantly two large hands thrust two cards at her; whereupon she was aware that she was about to entertain Detective Sergeant P. Flynn and Detective Sergeant A. Angellotti.

"Good evening, gentlemen," Lanny hailed them cordially. "Come in and rest your big flat feet."

P. Flynn nodded wisely to A. Angellotti. "She resents us, Amadeo," said he.

"Oh, I hope not, Pat. Let us hope it is not us she resents but our honorable profession." The wretch bowed again. "Thank you, Miss Lanning." And both gentlemen entered.

Lanny led them down the hall to her tiny drawing room. Angellotti, like a hound, followed close behind her, but Flynn was in no hurry. He swept the runner in the hall with a flashlight first, then followed his partner into the drawing room, and sat down heavily on a divan.

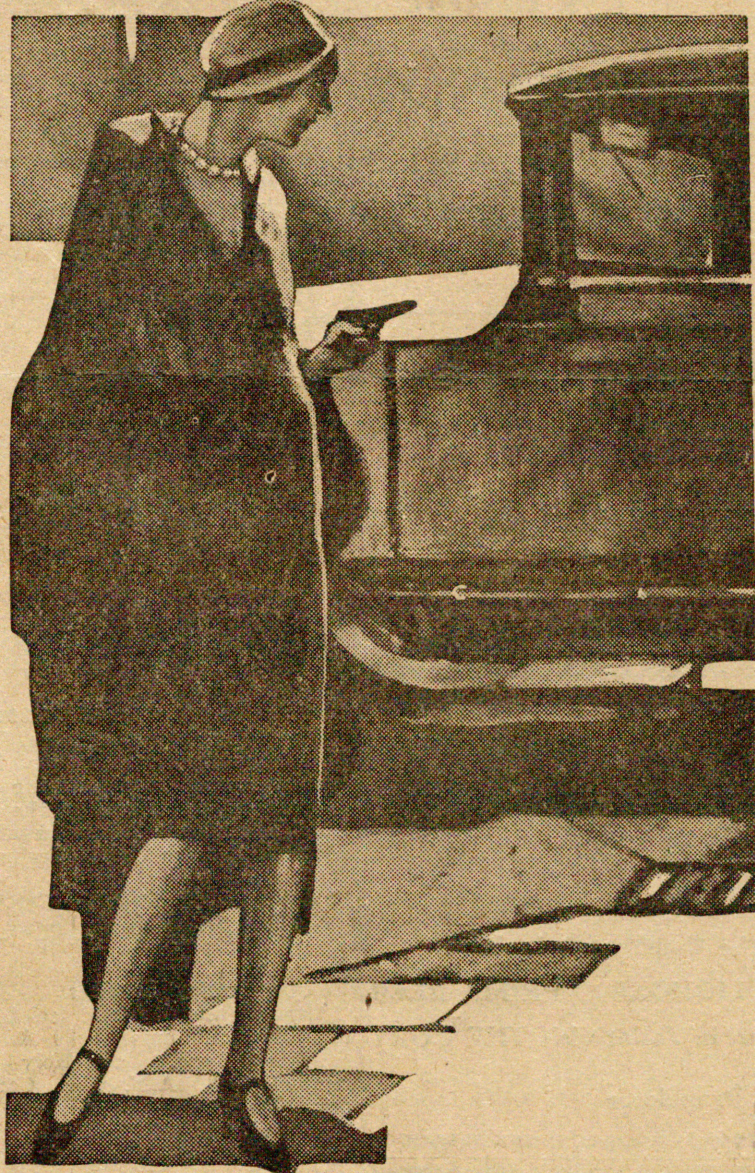

"Is this to be a long interview?" Lanny asked cheerfully.

P. Flynn shook his head. "A minute or two."

"Then I'll not bother giving you anything to drink."

"Well, it might take ten minutes, at that," Flynn countered.

"At least that," Angellotti agreed. "Besides, Pat, she works for a doctor and with a flashlight examined it very carefully again for signs of blood. He found two dried splotches and wiped them away before permitting her to depart.

As Lanny entered the driveway and paused in front of her garage, there were no detectives in sight, although there might have been had she deemed it the part of wisdom to glance carefully about her. She unlocked the garage door, climbed back in her car, drove in, stopped the motor and switched off the lights. Then she got out, closed and locked the garage door and turned on an electric light switch on the doorpost to light her way upstairs to her kitchen.

Then she almost screamed. Two big fellows wearing soft hats were standing behind her car, gazing at her owlishly. Instantly Lanny switched off the light, got her little pistol out of her bag and switched the light on again.

"Now what do you two handsome devils want?" she demanded.

Like automatons the pair threw back their lapels and disclosed their shields. "Cops or no cops," Lanny announced, "my garage is my castle, and you can't come into it uninvited without a search warrant."

The two detectives looked at each other and Lanny realized that they appreciated her very much indeed. "She's a lawyer," said one of them.

"Not a very good one, though," the other replied. "However, Pat, let her have her own way. A woman—the outrageous fellow bowed low—and particularly a young and beautiful woman—with a pistol—always makes me nervous. If you will be good

BOTH HUMOR AND POETRY EVINCED IN PLACE NAMES

The southern mountaineer's whimsical humor is seen not only in some of his songs and hoe-downs but in place names commemorating some jest, some episode more or less grimly comical or tragic—Broke-Jug creek, Tear-Breeches ridge, Chunky-Gal mountain. Seldom-Seen hollow, Rip-Shin ridge—ouch! How vividly that recalls certain scrambles through stony thickets—Burnt-Shirt mountain, Jerk 'Em Tight, Hanging Dog creek, Headforemost mountain, Bore-Auger creek, Fiery-Gizzard creek, the Devil's Courthouse, and so on.

In Cumberland county, Tennessee, two beautiful brawling streams unite whose names are No Business creek and How Come You creek. Undoubtedly, there is a story back of each name.

But the mountaineer is often poetic, too, and gracefully descriptive in his place names. The touch of melancholy in his nature is evidenced by the frequent recurrence of such names as Lonesome and Troublesome. Desolation, Defeated, Poor Fork, Kingdom Come, Falling Water and Lost creek are significant names of streams. Craggy Dome, Balsom Cone, the Black Brothers, Lone Bald Thunderhead, Little Snowbird, Grandfather; Hawksbill; Graybeard and Wine Spring Bald are all mountains lyrically and descriptively named.

I asked a mountain man in North Carolina whether a certain bold promontory had a name, and I have a pleasant memory of the slow lift of his eyes to where it towered 1,000 feet above us, and the soft drawl of his mellow, low-pitched voice as he answered: "Yas, hit's called the Winter Star."—Alvin F. Harlow in the Saturday Evening Post.

East Indian Time

The Samvat year is generally used in reckoning time in India, except in Bengal. According to tradition it was introduced by King Vikrama in 58 B.
C. A Samvat given date represents the year last completed.

Rite Discontinued

The last continual burnt offering made by the Jews in Jerusalem was probably made A. D. 71, since which time no such offering has been made.
